

THE NEW ATLANTIS

A JOURNAL OF TECHNOLOGY & SOCIETY

NUMBER 43 ~ SUMMER/FALL 2014

CORRESPONDENCE:

Elephants, Horses, Dogs, and Us; Heidegger and Technology 3

ESSAYS:

Losing Liberty in an Age of Access 13

James Poulos on the implications of the cultural shift away from ownership

Correlation, Causation, and Confusion 23

Nick Barrowman on some misconceptions about statistics in science and everyday life

Confronting the Technological Society 45

Samuel Matlack revisits Jacques Ellul's classic analysis of technique

Modernity and Our American Heresies 65

Peter Augustine Lawler explains how our Puritan and Lockean founders built better than they knew

The Neuroscience of Despair 81

Michael W. Begun on the trouble with seeing depression solely as a brain malfunction

REVIEWS & RECONSIDERATIONS:

Regarding Life at the Beginning 99

Gilbert Meilaender on a perceptive new book about abortion and our encounter with the unborn

The Tools of Their Tools 107

Evan Selinger and Jathan Sadowski review Nicholas Carr's book on automation

In Defense of Prejudice, Sort of 117

Ari N. Schulman on Enlightenment overreach and today's new rationalists
