

THE NEW ATLANTIS

A JOURNAL OF TECHNOLOGY & SOCIETY

NUMBER 47 ~ FALL 2015

---

ESSAYS:

Oil and World Power 3

Lee Lane on what the oil and gas boom means for America's geopolitical standing

Miss Marple and the Problem of Modern Identity 18

Alan Jacobs on being known by one's neighbors versus being known by the state

POPE FRANCIS ON THE ENVIRONMENT

The Flawed Economics of *Laudato Si' 31

W. David Montgomery on why the encyclical's moral teaching requires better policy

Is Pope Francis Anti-Modern? 45

M. Anthony Mills on the encyclical's critique of "the technocratic paradigm"

Two Approaches to Climate Action 56

Brendan P. Foht contrasts the encyclical with the recent Ecomodernist Manifesto

HUMAN UNIQUENESS IN THE COSMOS

Searching for Other Earths 67

Sara Seager on how—and why—we look for exoplanets

Meaning in a Silent Universe 76

Marcelo Gleiser on overcoming our sense of cosmic angst

The Fine-Tuning of Nature's Laws 87

Luke A. Barnes on what physics tells us about the improbability of life

REMEMBRANCE:

The Humble Scientist 98

Chase W. Nelson on the character and career of his late teacher, Austin L. Hughes

REVIEWS & RECONSIDERATIONS:

Attention Deficit 103

Diana Schaub reviews Matthew B. Crawford's book about an increasingly limited resource

A Reductionist History of Humankind 109

*John Sexton reviews Yuval Noah Harari's book *Sapiens

Einstein's Masterpiece 121

Michael W. Begun retraces the path to general relativity on the theory's 100th anniversary

The X-Files and the Demon-Haunted World 136

Ari N. Schulman on why we want to believe

---