

THE NEW ATLANTIS

A JOURNAL OF TECHNOLOGY & SOCIETY

NUMBER 26 ~ FALL 2009/WINTER 2010

ESSAYS:

The Future of Chemical Weapons 3

Jonathan B. Tucker on a neglected threat and what to do about it

The Financial Crisis and the Scientific Mindset 30

Paul J. Cella III on shadow banking and the returns of rationalism

On Bioethics in Public 39

Gilbert Meilaender reflects on the legacy of the President's Council on Bioethics

SYMPOSIUM:

Science, the Humanities, and the University

Patrick J. Deneen on science and the decline of the liberal arts 60

Ivan Kenneally on the technocratic American university 69

Peter Augustine Lawler on human dignity and higher education 85

Shilo Brooks on the soul of the scientist of man 98

Rita Koganzon on the Ivy League lament 108

REVIEWS & RECONSIDERATIONS:

Darwin's World of Pain and Wonder 119

Algis Valiunas on the great scientist's spiritual torment

Cheap Thrills 142

Noemie Emery defends the American consumer

The Formation of Character 147

David Skinner on how we write and who we are

Why We Walk 152

Jennifer Graf Groneberg on the origins of man and the end of walking

LITERATURE:

Nathaniel Hawthorne and the Spirit of Science 157

The Editors kick off a series on scientific progress and the American literary genius

Wasting the Water of Life 161

Kevin Laskowski on "Dr. Heidegger's Experiment" and the allure of immortality

LOOKING AHEAD, LOOKING BACK:

Bioethics: Left, Right, and Wrong 170

The Injustice of Bhopal 171
