

THE NEW ATLANTIS

A JOURNAL OF TECHNOLOGY & SOCIETY

NUMBER 48 ~ WINTER 2016

ESSAYS:

- Gene Editing: New Technology, Old Moral Questions 3
Brendan P. Foht on using CRISPR to help patients and design our descendants
- Attending to Technology: Theses for Disputation 16
Alan Jacobs offers an aphoristic critique of social media, commentary, and our credulity before algorithms
- The Myth of the Placebo Effect 46
Nick Barrowman on the shaky science underlying a popular idea
- Biomedicine and Its Cultural Authority 60
Joseph E. Davis on the origins of our "health society" and why holistic medicine doesn't catch on
- Hard to Believe 79
Robert Herritt on how we know what we know, and what to do when experts disagree
- The Enduring Legacy of *The Twilight Zone 90
Brian Murray on Rod Serling's struggle to turn TV into an art form
- Missing the Night Sky 115
Jacob Hoerger on light pollution, enlightenment, and our sense of finitude
-