

THE NEW ATLANTIS

A JOURNAL OF TECHNOLOGY & SOCIETY

NUMBER 54 ~ WINTER 2018

ESSAYS:

- Algorithmic Injustice 3
Tafari Mbadirwe on how to keep criminal sentencing algorithms from entrenching racial inequality
- Shakespeare's Worlds of Science 31
Natalie Elliot on cosmic and atomic upheaval in Hamlet, King Lear, and Romeo and Juliet
- The University the King Built 51
Waleed Al-Shobakky reports on a Saudi experiment to solve the West's science malaise—and become a global research powerhouse

THE BICENTENNIAL OF FRANKENSTEIN

- The Idea Incarnate 67
Kirsten A. Hall on when our thoughts run away from us
- Responsible Frankensteins? 83
Brendan P. Foht on the conceit that embryo researchers can play God, but ethically

REVIEWS & RECONSIDERATIONS:

- Disenchantment, Actually 96
Doug Sikkema on how myths, true or false, shape the conditions of our experience
- The Political Path to GPS 104
Anthony Paletta describes how war and peace forged the universal map
- Lives of the Immortalists 113
Olga Rachello on the human stories of people who don't want to be human
-