

THE NEW ATLANTIS

A JOURNAL OF TECHNOLOGY & SOCIETY

NUMBER 55 ~ SPRING 2018

ESSAYS:

- Google.gov 3
Adam J. White on whether growing calls to break up Google distract from a quiet alignment between “smart” government and the universal information engine
- The Tech Backlash We Really Need 35
L. M. Sacasas on why Silicon Valley will only be strengthened by its present scandals unless we ask deeper questions
- For the Love of Mars 43
James Poulos on why settling the Red Planet would lift us from our antihuman malaise
- Richard Feynman and the Pleasure Principle 61
Algis Valiunas on how a cerebral hedonist became a scientific hero

STORIES OF FAITH & SCIENCE

- Faith and the Fear of Death 85
Jonathan Jong on confronting our mortality from the lab and the altar
- Encounter in the Vale 96
Jonathan Mosedale recounts a story of hiking, frailty, and glimpsing the divine

REVIEWS & RECONSIDERATIONS:

- Did Thomas Kuhn Kill Truth? 109
David Kordahl reviews filmmaker Errol Morris’s new book on whether the philosopher of science threw an ashtray at his head
- The Joy of Cryptozoology 123
Clare Coffey on the Jersey Devil and the psychology of conspiracy theories
-